Using Technology to Understand, Manage & Develop Information

Concurrent Breakouts: Participants must attend the session for which they signed up in advance of the program.

(1) Techniques in Electronic Case Management

Berkshire

Sean Broderick, National Litigation Support Administrator, Office of Defender Services, Administrative Office of U.S. Courts (Oakland, CA)

Ronald Tyler, Assistant Federal Public Defender, N.D. CA (San Francisco)

This session will focus on the primary uses of Adobe, ISYS, TimeMap, and CaseMap, in emphasizing how electronic case management can aid the defense. Through a combination of demonstration and hands-on use participants will learn how these programs can create searchable data and chronologies.

(2) Use of Diagramming & Timelines for Case Analysis & Development

Quincy

Nora Steele, Paralegal Specialist, Office of the Federal Public Defender, D. AZ (Phoenix)

Jan Kullberg, Paralegal, Office of the Federal Public Defender, D. AZ (Phoenix)

In this session, participants will discover how to use diagrams as a means to quickly and efficiently organize and summarize key facts and players for use throughout their case. Such uses include: thoroughly preparing for initial client meetings; developing compelling defense and mitigation theories; assisting the attorney in quickly gaining knowledge of the case; and developing leads for the defense team. In addition to showing examples of diagrams created in Word, PowerPoint, Analyst's Notebook and Visio, the presenters will demonstrate how Visio 2007 operates, using the facts from the model case. Participants will also have an opportunity for hands-on use of Visio 2007.

(3) Uses of PowerPoint in Defense Work

Rockport

Pamela VanderMeer, Paralegal Specialist, Office of the Federal Public Defender, W.D. MI (Grand Rapids)

This session will focus on the many ways PowerPoint can aid in an understanding of facts and concepts in a given case. The session will include a brief presentation on the effectiveness of using PowerPoint in court and out of court, followed by hands-on use of PowerPoint in creating a presentation, using the facts of the model case, for a defense team meeting with the client in preparation for trial. A combination of basic and advanced PowerPoint functions will be covered.

(4) Techniques in Online Investigation

Marquis Ballroom

Jonathan Lyon, Investigator

Through a combination of lecture and interactive discussion, based in part on the model case, this session will teach participants techniques for using the internet as an investigative aid. The participants will learn a better way of using search engines to get results that are more relevant, and less daunting in number. The introduction of a metasearch engine and the new technology of clustering will be discussed. The session will also touch on issues related to the use of social networking sites.

4:15-4:30 p.m.

Break

4:30-5:30 p.m.

Writing Skills

Concurrent Breakouts: Participants must attend the session for which they signed up in advance of the program.

(1) Drafting Declarations and Reports

Marquis Ballroom

Alicia Hutton, Investigator, Office of the Federal Public Defender, D. MA (Boston)

This presentation will discuss how to ensure that your reports are clear and concise, and review the essentials in constructing declarations. It will also address discovery rules and how they impact decisions regarding when/how to memorialize information obtained during investigations.

(2) Persuasive Writing

Rockport

Ronald Tyler, Assistant Federal Public Defender, N.D. CA (San Francisco)

This presentation will discuss the principles of persuasive writing, preparing participants to apply these principles to writing briefs, motions, sentencing memos and other similar documents. Particular emphasis will be on sentencing memos.

5:30 p.m.
