

Update Regarding the National COVID-19 Emergency

Oral Argument Sessions.

The Court En Banc has determined that the oral argument sessions scheduled for April 12-16, 2021; May 10-14, 2021; and June 14-18, 2021 will be conducted by videoconference, rather than in person. The videoconferences will be conducted using the Microsoft Teams application. The clerk's office will contact all counsel whose cases are scheduled for these sessions to confirm counsel's ability to participate and to review the procedures to be followed in the videoconference oral arguments.

Paper Briefs and Appendices.

Paper briefs and appendices are still required. All paper briefs and appendices should be mailed to the St. Louis Clerk's Office.

Public Access. Access to both the Eagleton Courthouse and the Burger Courthouse remains limited. Please check your local district court's website for the current orders regarding access to the facilities. Both the St. Louis and the St. Paul clerk's offices remain closed to the public in the interests of public and staff safety. Staff are working in the office and remotely and can assist you with any questions or case inquiries. Please note that in the interest of safety, paper copies of documents may not be hand-delivered to either clerk's office.

Questions or concerns should be addressed to the St. Louis Clerk's Office at 314-244-2400.

Thank you for your cooperation.

The U.S. Court House and Custom House served as the Eighth Circuit's home from 1935 until the court moved to its present quarters in the Thomas F. Eagleton Building in 2000. It is now known as the Carnahan Courthouse and is used by the Twenty-Second Judicial Circuit of Missouri.
